Terrific look into the mind of a death camp commandant

By Amazon Customer

Mrs. Sereny Clearly and concisely brings you the viewpoints of SS Hauptsturmfuhrer Franz Stangl from his Prison cell in Spandau. Stangl was the commandant of the Sobibor Death camp and then charged with making the Treblinka death camp an efficient killing factory. The book is completely objective, and is the last testament of Herr Stangl before his death in 1971 in the prison. A must read for any holocaust scholar, or those who wish to learn how the mind of a bureaucratic mass murderer. Although it is not light reading, I would recomend this book to anyone as preparation for history repeating itself (which it most certainly will)

A powerful and important book.

By A Customer

This "in depth" study of Nazi Germany extemination techniques has few equals- written with unrivalled compassion, it thoroughly examines the political and moral aspects of mass murder. It openly exposes Hitler's criminal programs, from Euthanasia to the Final Solution. Very importantly, it uncovers Vaticans role in helping smuggle Nazi war criminals out of Europe after the war's end. A real "must" for everyone involved in Holocaust studies.This book will give you nightmares on end.

Going into the dark corners of the human soul

By a bolduc

The author does a great job of understanding the reasons which lead Frank Standl to become the Kommandant of Treblinka. Frank Standl allows her to enter his soul and help him understand how he could have committed these attocious things. Through this, she also takes a look at the human soul. Was Frankl that different from anyone of us. Had it been us, would we had done the same thing?
